EVERYBODY'S DOCTOR,

By ROBERT A. GUNN, M. D.

Everybody's Doctor contains 684 octavo pages and is printed on fine paper handsomely bound. It is sold at the low price of three ($3) dollars a copy, so as to bring it within the reach of all.

The work differs from all other books on Domestic Medicine in having the diseases systematically arranged, according to their classification. Everything is described in the plainest possible language, and the prescriptions are written out in plain English, so that they can be employed by any intelligent reader.

Druggists will find this book of great advantage in adding them to give advice when asked to do so.

Dealers will find much information in it that will prove valuable to themselves and their patients.

Teachers will be better prepared for the performance of their duties in the school room by studying it.

Parents will find it a reliable adviser in everything relating to the rearing of their children.

Every family can save fifty times the price of the book every year, by consulting it.

It is complete in all its parts, and is the most recent book of the kind published.

The book will be sent free by mail or express on receipt of three dollars.

TO THE CITIZENS OF RENO.

I HAVE BEEN A RESIDENT OF YOUR town for three years, and outside of my own business have not seen a decent pair of boots that were made here. In order, therefore, to extend to everyone facilities for obtaining really first-class boots and shoes, I have sent to San Francisco for two A. No. 1 mechanics, the best to be found in the country, and shall run (as heretofore) a prime first-class shop. This enlargement of my stock and facilities will entail heavy extra expense, and I look and trust, therefore, to Reno citizens, and all the people generally desirous of obtaining the very best of workmanship, to aid me with their increased patronage. Pithless, mortal, first-class workmen and artless work, at living rates, is the motto of my coat of arms inscribed on the banner floating from my castle walls.

Respectfully, H. F. PAYOLA.

ANOTHER SENATORIAL MUD-DLE.

The Senatorial elections during the past year have generally resulted in the choice of a dark horse, and the action of Michigan, Minnesota and Oregon is about to be repeated in New Hampshire. Oregon repudiated the caucus nominee and elected Dolph. Sabin came to the front in Minnesota, greatly to the chagrin of Windup. Ferry had to give way in Michigan to Palmer. And now Rollins, of New Hampshire, is booked for defeat, notwithstanding he is the regular nominee of his party, and the Republicans are largely in the majority. But forty-six of the Republicans refuse to abide the decision of the caucus nominee, and unless all but ten of them re-elect Rollins can not secure the prize. The Legislature is now engaged in balloting, and the problem will soon be solved.

Sherman's March to the Pacific.

General Sherman, accompanied by Colonel Tibball, of his staff, left Washington Wednesday morning for Buffalo, where he will be joined by Chief Justice Waite and Justice Gray. From there the party will start on their trip across the continent, along the northern boundary, for the inspection of all the military forts en route. General Sherman would have postponed his departure until after the funeral of General Ewing, but one day's delay in starting would have disarranged all plans throughout for the entire trip, which had been carefully mapped out with dates for arrivals at certain points and scouts provided to meet the party along the route.

A Gambling House at Long Branch.

A New York dispatch says the latest and most successful attempt to open a gambling hall at Long Branch is now fairly under way. It is Phil. Dally's enterprise, and is the first deliberate attempt in this country to imitate the luxurious sporting houses of Baden and other European spas, and to entice American women to imitate the practices of Continental fashionables. Anything more unique and glittering than this so-called club-house has not been seen in this country.

A rumor is current on the street that Hughes, the successful operator, will make an effort to gain the control of the Alta mine at the next annual meeting. The officials discredited the rumor. Hughes is known to be a "worker," however, and has bought largely of the stock. The chances are that if he really wants the control he will secure it, for the insiders do not own many shares.—S. F. Post.

Hughes had better contract the above job out, or secure the control of the Bank of California and the Nevada Bank.

The New York City Republican Central Committee has adopted the plan of reorganization prepared by the committee of eighteen. The only changes made in it by the executive committee are that the proposed enrollment will be made in November, after the general election, instead of September, and that all who call themselves Republicans, whether they belong to district organizations or not, may be enrolled.

The Supervisors of San Francisco have fixed the rate of taxation for the expenses of the government of the city at one per cent, on the assessed value of all property, and they add 20 cents on each $100 to meet an interest and sinking fund.

The annual Cornish wrestling matches will be held in Grass Valley, California, commencing on the Fourth of July and lasting three days. Good prizes will be given, and some of the noted wrestlers of the coast are expected to contest for them.

During the run of the Independence-Navajo mill, which commenced on the 20th of July, 1892 and ended on the 10th instant, it produced $818,866 45.

Sacramento is agitated from center to circumference because of a beer war between five and ten cent dealers. A few brewers are thrown in.

A Tie Between Two Students.—Two boys of the senior class of the High School—Mark Averill and Harry Lynd—have tied in all their examination in all their studies. Their average was over ninety-nine per cent, in everything; the pair was so perfect that no difference could be seen. This being the case, they had to decide which should have the honor of delivering the valedictory by drawing lots, and at this game Averill was the winner. Both are as bright young men as are to be found on the Pacific Coast, and both have done some hard studying to win, stopping at nothing short of perfection in all that was undertaken by them.—Enterprise.

PROBLEMS OF THE TIMES.

The March of Concentration.

(By Henry George.)

In 1790, at the time of the first census of the United States, the cities contained but 3.3 per cent. of the whole population. In 1890 the cities contained 22.5 per cent. of the population. This tendency of population to concentrate is one of the marked features of our time. All over the civilized world the great cities are growing even faster than the growth of population. The increase in the population of England and Scotland during the present century has been in the cities. In France, where population is nearly stationary, the large cities are year by year becoming larger. In Ireland, where population is steadily declining, Dublin and Belfast are steadily growing.

The same great agencies—steam and machinery—that are thus massing population in cities are operating even more powerfully to concentrate industry and trade. This is to be seen wherever the new forces have had play, and in every branch of industry, from such primary ones as agriculture, stock-raising, mining and fishing, up to those created by recent invention, such as railroading, telegraphing, or the lightning by gas or electricity.

It has been stated on the authority of the United States Census Bureau that the average size of farms is decreasing in the United States. This statement is not only inconsistent with facts obvious all over the United States, and with the tendencies of agriculture in other countries, such as Great Britain, but it is inconsistent with the returns furnished by the Census Bureau itself. According to the "Compendium of the Tenth Census," the increase of the number of farms in the United States during the decade between 1870 and 1880 was about 50 per cent., and the returns in the eight classes of farms enumerated show a steady diminution in the smaller sized farms and a steady increase in the larger. In the class under three acres, the decrease during the decade was about 37 per cent.; between three and ten acres, about 21 per cent.; between ten and twenty acres, about 11 per cent.; between twenty and fifty acres, something less than 8 per cent. With the class between 50 and 100 acres the increase begins, amounting in this class to about 30 per cent. In the next class, between 100 and 500 acres, the increase is nearly 100 per cent. In the class between 500 and 1,000 acres it is nearly 400 per cent. In the class over 1,000 acres, the largest given, it amounts to almost 700 per cent.

Now, in the face of these figures, the Census Bureau can report a decline in the average size of farms in the United States from 153 acres in 1870 to 134 acres in 1890 I cannot understand. Nor is it worth while here to inquire. The inconsistent fact is that, like everything else, the ownership of land is concentrating, and farming is assuming a larger scale. This is due to the improvements in agricultural machinery, which makes farming a business requiring more capital, to the enhanced value of land, to the changes produced by railroads, and the advantages which special rates give the large over the small producer. That it is an accelerating tendency there is no question. The new era in farming is only beginning. And whatever be its gains, it involves the reduction of the great body of American farmers to the ranks of tenants or laborers. There are no means of discovering the increase of tenant farming in the United States during the last decade, as no returns as to tenantry were made prior to the last census; but that shows that there were in the United States in 1880 no less than 1,024,601 tenant farmers. If, in addition to this, we could get at the number of farmers nominally owning their own land, but who are in reality paying rent in the shape of interest on mortgages, the result would be astounding.

How in all other branches of industry the same process is going on, it is scarcely necessary to speak. It is obvious everywhere that the independent mechanic is becoming an operative, the storekeeper a salesman in a big store, the small merchant a clerk or book-keeper, and that men, under the old system independent, are being massed in the employ of great firms or corporations. A large class of people, including many professed public teachers, are constantly talking as though all that is necessary to business success are energy, industry and economy—are constantly pointing to the fact that men who began with nothing are now rich, as proof that any one can begin with nothing and get rich.

That most of our rich men did begin with nothing is true. But that the same success could be as easily won now is not true. Times of change always afford opportunities for the rise of individuals, which disappear when social relations are again adjusted. We have not only been overrunning a new continent, but the introduction of steam and the application of machinery have brought about industrial changes such as the world never before saw.

When William the Conqueror paraded out England among his followers, a feudal aristocracy was created out of an army of adventurers. But when society had hardened again, a hereditary nobility had formed into which no common man could hope to win his way, and the descendants of William's adventurers looked down upon men of their father's class as upon beings formed of inferior clay. So when a new country is rapidly settling, those who come while land is cheap and industry and trade are in process of organization have opportunities that those who start from the same plane when land has become valuable and society has formed cannot have.

The rich men of the first generation in a new country are always men who started with nothing, but the rich men of subsequent generations are generally those who inherited their start. In the United States, when we hear of a wealthy man, we naturally ask, "How did he make his money?" for the presumption, over the greater part of the country, is that he acquired it himself. In England they do not ordinarily ask that question—there the presumption is that he inherited it.

But, though the soil of England was parceled out long ago, the great changes consequent upon the introduction of steam and machinery have there, as here, opened opportunities to rise from the ranks of labor to great wealth. Those opportunities are now closed or closing. When a railroad train is slowly moving off, a single step may put one on it. But in a few minutes those who have not taken that step may run themselves out of breath in the hopeless endeavor to overtake the train. It is absurd to think that it is easy to step aboard a train at full speed because those who got on board at starting did so easily. So is it absurd to think that opportunities open when steam and machinery were beginning their concentrating work will remain open.

An English friend, a wealthy retired Manchester manufacturer, once told me the story of his life. How he went to work at eight years of age helping make twine, when twine was made entirely by hand. How, when a young man, he walked to Manchester, and having got credit for a bale of flax, made it into twine and sold it. How, building up a little trade, he got others to work for him. How, when machinery began to be invented and steam was introduced, he took advantage of them, until he had a big factory and made a fortune, when he withdrew to spend the rest of his days at ease, leaving his business to his son.

"Supposing you were a young man now," said I, "could you walk to Manchester and do that again?" "No," replied he; "no one could. I couldn't with fifty thousand pounds in place of my five shillings."

So in every branch of business in which the new agencies have begun to reach anything like development. Leland Stanford drove an ox-team to California; Henry Villard came here from Germany a poor boy, became a newspaper reporter, and rode a mule from Kansas City to Denver when the plains were swarming with Indians—a thing no one with a bank account would do. Stanford and his associates got hold of the Central Pacific enterprise, with its Government endowments, and are now masters of something like twelve thousand miles of rail, millions of acres of land, steamship lines, express companies, banks and newspapers, to say nothing of legislatures, congressmen, judges, etc. So Henry Villard, by a series of fortunate accidents, which he had energy and tact to improve, got hold of the Oregon Steam Navigation combination, and of the Northern Pacific endowment, and has become the railroad king of the immense domain north of the Stanford dominions, having likewise his thousands of miles of road, millions of acres of land, his newspapers, political servitors, and literary brashers-off of lies.

Now, it is not merely that such opportunities as these were made by the Stanfords and Villards so great, only come with the opening of new countries and the development of new industrial agents; but that the rise of the Stanfords and Villards makes impossible the rise of others such as they. Whoever now starts a railroad within the domains of either must become subordinate and tributary to them. The great railroad king alone can fight the great railroad king, and control of the railroad system not only gives the railroad kings control of branch roads, of express companies, stage lines, steamship lines, etc., not only enables them to make or unmake the smaller towns, but it enables them to "size the pile" of any one who develops a business requiring transportation, and to transfer to their own pockets any surplus beyond what, after careful consideration, they think he ought to make. The rise of these great powers is like the growth of a great tree, which draws the moisture from the surrounding soil, and stunts all other vegetation by its shade.

So, too, does concentration operate in all businesses. The big mill crushes out the little mill. The big store undercuts the little store till it gets rid of its competition. On the top of the building of the American News Company, on Chambers street, New York, stands a newsboy carved in marble. It was in this way that the managing man of this enormous combination began. But what was at first the union of a few sellers of newspapers for mutual convenience has become such a powerful concern, that combination after combination, backed with capital and managed with skill, have gone down in the attempt to break or share its monopoly. The newsboy may look upon the statue that crowns the building as the young Englishman who goes to India to take a clerical position may look upon the statue of Lord Olive. It is a lesson and an incentive, to be sure; but just as Olive's victories, by establishing the English dominion in India, made such a career as his impossible again, so does the success of such a concern as the American News Company make it impossible for men of small capital to establish another such business.

So may the printer look upon the Tribune building, or the newspaper writer upon that of the Herald. A Greeley or a Bennett could no longer hope to establish a first-class paper in New York, or to get control of one already established, unless he got a Jay Gould to back him. Even in our newest cities the day has gone by when a few printers and a few writers could combine and start a daily paper. To say nothing of the close corporation of the Associated Press, the newspaper has become an immense machine, requiring large capital, and for the most part it is written by literary operatives, who must write to suit the capitalist that controls it.

In the last generation a full-rigged Indianan would be considered a very large vessel if she registered 200 tons. Now we are building coasting schooners of 1,000 tons. It is not long since our first-class ocean steamers were of 1,200 or 1,500 tons. Now the crack steamers on the trans-Atlantic route are rising to 10,000 tons. Not merely are there relatively fewer captains, but the chances of modern captains are not as good. The captain of a great trans-Atlantic steamer recently told me that he got no more pay now than when as a young man he commanded a small sailing-ship. Nor is there now any "primage," any "venture," any chance of becoming owner as well as Captain.

Under any condition of things short of a rigid system of hereditary caste, there will, of course, always be men who, by force of great abilities and happy accidents, win their way from poverty to wealth, and from low to high position; but the strong tendencies of the time are to make this more and more difficult. Jay Gould is probably a smarter man than the present Vanderbilt. Had they started even, Vanderbilt might now have been peddling mouse-traps or working for a paltry salary as some one's clerk, while Jay Gould counted his scores of millions. But with all his money-making ability Gould cannot overcome the start given by the enormous acquisitions of the first Vanderbilt. And when the sons of the present great money-makers take their places, the chances of rivalry on the part of anybody else's sons will be infinitely less.

All the tendencies of the present are not merely to the concentration, but to the perpetuation, of great fortunes. There are no crusades; the habits of the very rich are not to that mad extravagance that could dissipate such fortunes; high play has gone out of fashion, and the gambling of the Stock Exchange is more dangerous to short than to long purses. Stocks, bonds, mortgages, safe deposit and trust companies aid the retention of large wealth, and all modern agencies enlarge the sphere of its successful employment.

On the other hand, the mere laborer is becoming more helpless, and small capitals find it more and more difficult to compete with larger capitals. The greater railroad companies are swallowing up the lesser railroad companies; one great telegraph company already controls the telegraph wires of the continent, and, to save the cost of buying up more patents, pays inventors not to invent. As in England, nearly all the public-houses have passed into the hands of the great brewers, so, here, large firms start young men, taking chattel mortgages on their stock. As in Great Britain, the supplying of railway passengers with eatables and drinkables has passed into the hands of a single great company, and in Paris one large restaurant, with numerous branches, is taking the trade of the smaller ones, so here the boys who sell papers and peanuts on the trains are employees of companies, and bundles are carried and errands run by corporations.

I am not denying that this tendency is largely to subserve public convenience. I am merely pointing out that it exists. A great change is going on all over the civilized world similar to that infestation which, in Europe, during the rise of the feudal system, converted free proprietors into vassals, and brought all society into subordination to a hierarchy of wealth and privilege. Whether the new aristocracy is hereditary or not makes little difference. Chance alone may determine who will get the few prizes in a lottery. But it is not the less certain that the vast majority of all who take part in it must draw blanks. The forces of the new era have not yet had time to make status hereditary, but we may clearly see that when the industrial organization compels a thousand workmen to take service under one master, the proportion of masters to men will be but as one to a thousand, though the one may come from the ranks of the thousand. "Master!" We don't like the word. It is not American! But what is the use of objecting to the word when we have the thing. The man who gives me employment, which I must have or suffer, that man is my master, let me call him what I will.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

IN AND OUT OF TOWN.

What is Being Said and Done in a Small Way.

Mrs. Perkins has resumed business. Yesterday was the longest day of the year.

Hawthorne celebrates, Judge T. H. Wells orates.

Charley Francisco is in from the Pyramid country.

Argenta has been assessed twenty-five cents per share.

Some of our farmers are about ready to commence haying.

Isaac Fredrick and wife returned from San Francisco yesterday.

Nick Hammersmith will open the barber shop in Chislovich's in a few days.

The Virginia Chronicle figures that there is still a show for a bonanza in Union.

Governor J. W. Adams was in town last evening en route to the eastern part of the State.

Emigrant trains are running full. On an average, five car loads pass west every evening.

Stocks were sicker than ever yesterday, and there does not seem to be any balm in Gilead.

The Greenaway party of the ladies of the Episcopal Church, will be given at the Pavilion this evening.

M. B. Augustine, of Martin & Augustine, has returned from a trip through Churchill and into Mason Valley.

The majority of the young ladies of Mt. St. Mary's Academy and the "School for Girls" have gone home for the summer vacation.

It is reported that the Central Pacific Railroad Company will purchase John Q. Moore's coal mine, near Carlin, for a handsome figure.

The engagement is announced of Lieutenant Richardson Clover, U. S. N., and Miss Dora Miller, daughter of Senator Miller, of California. It is a last year's rumor revived, this time authoritatively. The young lady is her father's only presumptive heir, and the Senator's wealth is well up in the millions.

Picnic Excursion.

Reno M. E. Sunday School picnic excursion will leave on the V. & T. road for Steamboat Springs, on Saturday morning, June 30th, at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to pass a cool, pleasant day. Tickets for the round trip are 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children outside of the school, which are to be had at the Postoffice, Brookins' and Nabys' or of Rev. Geo. DeLaMaty or F. McRae, C. P. freight office.

The Correct Time.

The new time card is ready. The east-bound overland arrives at Reno at 6:30 A. M. and leaves at 7, meeting the west bound at Clark's station twenty miles down the river, which arrives at Reno at 7:40 and leaves at 8:10. The V. & T. train leaves Virginia at 4:30, arriving at Reno at 6:40, and returning leaves Reno at 8:10 and arrives at Virginia at 11.

Poor Churchill.

Hon. W. C. Grimes, of Churchill county, was in town yesterday. He says the outlook in his section is not at all encouraging there being no market for the produce of the farms, the construction of the Carson and Colorado road having driven off the teams. Barley is almost dead stock and is only quoted at 1 1/2 cents per pound.

Opium Fiend's Sentence.

Justice Young yesterday fined J. A. Davis, the "pipe" hitter, to pay a fine of $240, or go to jail for 120 days. Davis is now in jail. The Judge says he will impose heavy fines upon all opium fiends, and whenever he gets the owners of the dens in his Court, he will give them six months, the full limit of the penalty.

N. & O.

The "Santa Cruz" arrived from Carson last night, and will be placed on the N. & O. track this forenoon. A train may be run over the road this afternoon.

"ENJOY YOUR LIFE"

is a good philosophy, but to do so you must have health. If bilious and constipated, or blood is out of order, use Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pills," which are mild, yet certain in their operation. Of all druggists.

A Philadelphia organist has been discharged for playing (though very slowly and solemnly) a march from an opera ouffe. Seventeen deacons recognized it at once.

FAST OVERLAND TRAINS.

Changes in Time on Railroads to the Eastward.

OMAHA, June 19.—The chances are that the fast-train time schedule, which the Union Pacific Railway has adopted, to go into effect July 1st, will undergo important revision before that date. The Central Pacific has been disposed to throw as much as possible of the shortening of time upon the Union Pacific. The Chicago and Northwestern officials state that they have made a proposition to the Union Pacific which they will urge, and which is to bring the Atlantic express into this city at 6 o'clock in the morning, instead of 7:30 in the morning, to enable the Northwestern to start out a fast train in connection with it which will reach Chicago at 10 o'clock the same evening, to connect with trains for New York. If this scheme is carried out, it will give the Iowa roads a chance to do their share toward rapid passenger service on the overland route.

ODGEN, June 20.—The Denver and Rio Grande, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and Burlington and Missouri River railroads announce their intention of changing their time jointly on July 1. Close connections will be made with the Central Pacific at this point, and the running schedule will be sufficiently reduced to afford practically the same through time between San Francisco and Ogden and the Missouri river as will be made under the new schedule of the Union Pacific. It is also probable that a second daily passenger train will be placed on those lines east of Ogden, as all the roads are in good condition. A competition in fast time across the continent seems imminent.

A Noble Woman.

It is said that Mrs. E. B. Crocker, at present sojourning at Lake Tahoe, is the most benevolent woman on the Pacific Coast. She is reported to expend many thousands each year in the relief of distress and otherwise aiding worthy people. Her charities are performed in a quiet unostentatious manner, and, in accordance with her commendable modest wish, are not enumerated in the columns of newspapers. She is a sincere philanthropist, believing that she can perpetuate her individual happiness by establishing that of others. So says the Carson Appeal.

The Eureka and Colorado Road.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the Eureka & Colorado River Railroad Company, held Monday, says the Eureka Leader, the question of resuming work on the Eureka branch of that road was seriously discussed. From sources which we deem reliable we learn that the above work will be postponed for the present, but if the prospects of that portion of the country through which it is intended the road shall come shall in a few months develop anything sufficient to guarantee the work of construction, then about the beginning of next year the matter will be actively taken up and the road pushed through.

A Scene

Some fun-loving boy placed a torpedo on the track last night, and when the locomotive wheels struck it, it exploded with terrific force making a noise mistaken by many for a pistol shot, and a crowd of people gathered around expecting to learn that there had been a murder or suicide.

In His Element.

Capt. Geo. G. Lyon, late Private Secretary to ex-Governor Kinkaid, has purchased a half interest in the Seattle Post and Intelligencer, paying therefor the sum of $12,000. The Captain is a vigorous writer, and has certainly struck a streak of good luck.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken in of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. Feb. 21-sw-lyr.

The most healthy and popular drink of the season is the ice cold soda water, sparkling with purest gas and flavored with true, delicious fruit syrups, to be had only at Queen's soda fountain.

The best known remedy for coughs and colds is the Infalible Cough Mixture prepared by Osburn & Shoemaker.

A splendid stock of fresh garden, field and flower seeds just received at Osburn & Shoemaker's.

FUN.

The latest novelty is a looking-glass upon whose surface can be found indications of a clear sky or coming storms. Such looking-glasses should be placed upon the weather bureau.

Telegraph wire are so numerous on some of the streets in New York city that people living on a fourth-floor flat can sift their ashes by merely throwing them against the network.

Princess Louise says she was much pleased with Boston, and the Bostonians are so proud over it that they think of building a wall around the city and charging an admission fee.

Happy Thought.—Daughter of the house (having tried her partner and not finding him up to the mark):—"Stop! Do you know, I see that Miss Hinkson isn't dancing? I really must give you up to her!"

Some observant genius has calculated that in the United States there is one cow to every four people. It is believed that the same ratio exists in fashionable society, there being a calf to every four young men.

Much of the trouble in married life originates in disputing who shall carry the pocketbook. A young Philadelphia husband got around this trouble by letting his wife carry the pocketbook while he kept the money.

A boy who does not sigh to become a stage-driver, a hunter, a fireman, or a pirate, will make a flapjack sort of a man, who may possibly learn to cobble shoes, but will not be smart enough to put a bolt on a door.

Rev. Joseph Cook says that under the sacredness of the betrothal tie, a Hindu woman is lower than a slave, if her spouse dies. It is different in this country. Here, in too many cases, she is lower than a slave as long as her spouse lives.

Home Comfort.

After a Rainy Ride a Country Physician Tells What He Thinks of Some People.

"I wish to gracious some people would learn when they need a doctor and when they don't," exclaimed Doctor E., as he entered his house in a cosy little village in the interior of the State of New York, after a tedious night ride of many miles. "I have been down among the mountains to see a man, who the messenger said, was very sick and not likely to live till morning, unless he had immediate help, and found him suffering from a sharp attack of colic, which his family might have relieved in ten minutes, if they had a grain of sense and two or three simple remedies in the house. But no, they must remain ignorant as pigs, and when the least ache or pain takes them, send for a doctor, whether they ever pay him or not."

"Why, Doctor, what kind of simple remedies, as you call them, do you expect to keep in the house?" asked his wife, as she poured him a cup of hot tea.

"In this case," answered the Doctor, "if they had only put a BENSON'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER on the man's stomach, he would have been all right in an hour, and saved me a dreary ride."

In all ordinary complaints it cures at once. All diseases are eliminated from the system by what may be roughly called expulsion or extraction, or by a union of two processes. Benson's Plaster promotes both. It facilitates the torpid organs to act, and sends its healing, soothing influence through the myriad pores of the skin. All other plasters oblige the patient to wait. They gave him hope for to-morrow. Benson's Plaster gives him help to-day. Which is better, do you think? Buy the CAPSICUM and keep it in the house. Price 25 cents.
